Heavy hors d'oeuvres will also be served.

Thursday afternoon, after the students have completed matriculation, Cinda Ranklin, assistant athletic director, will organize initiative games on the front campus. Huntley said the purpose of the games is to build confidence and camaraderie among the freshmen.

Friday kicks off an "Adventure Weekend." Under the guidance of the Washington and Lee Army ROTC, freshmen will have the opportunity to try their hand at spelunking and rappelling from a bridge and a cliff. An overnight camping trip on the Appalachian Trail is also scheduled.

At 8 p.m. Friday night in the duPont Auditorium, Deborra Kiridge, an instructor in fine arts at W&L., will deliver a lecture on "Women at W&L.", The lecture marks the beginning of an exhibition at the duPont Gallery on the same theme.

Saturday's activities begin with a lecture on "Women in the Army" in the duPont Auditorium by Capt. Jane Maisserwski. Students will also have the opportunity to learn rope bridge techniques at Pedders Creek.

"Women in the South, " an all-day symposium featuring local and nationally known scholars, begins at 10 a.m. in Northern Auditorium and continues until 4 p.m.

The Green Beret Parachute Jump Team will drop in on the freshmen picnic from 11:30-2 p.m. on the upper athletic field. The jump is also sponsored by the W&L ROTC.

The freshmen will complete their orientation work with a white water rafting trip Sunday on the Maury River.
